

Errata

Our sincere thanks to those who notified us about the following errors or omissions in the first issue of volume 15.

Re: Carter, I (2009). Positive and Negative Experiences of Parents Involved in Online Self-Help Groups for Autism. 15(1), 44-52.

The prevalence of autism as reported by Chakrabarti and Fombonne (2005) is approximately 1 in 165, not 1 in 65.

Re: Davidson, A.-L. (2000). Why is it so Hard to Talk About Our Intellectual Disability? 15(1), 8-20.

The Acknowledgements section was inadvertently omitted from this paper. This should read:

I wish to thank my collaborators for sharing their thoughts while this research was being conducted and for editing this text: Raymond Leblanc Ph.D., University of Ottawa; Keenan Wellar, CEO, LiveWorkPlay; Julie Kingstone, President, LiveWorkPlay; Grace Hudson, staff member, LiveWorkPlay; Daniel Harris, staff member, LiveWorkPlay.